I work locally as a primary school class teacher having had a previous life qualifying as a solicitor and working for a global professional services company in London and overseas. I was a school governor for ten years at a local primary school before I joined the governing body at St Luke's in 2019.

It is a challenging time for schools and I am very happy to be part of the team who are working to ensure that the children have a positive experience at school and are nurtured, educated and prepared to be able to achieve their full potential.
